DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is responsive to the amendment filed July 8, 2003. That amendment was mistakenly treated as an amendment filed after a final rejection. However, the office action mailed on April 8, 2003, was not a final office action and the amendment filed July 8, 2003 has been entered and is considered as set forth below.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 16 and 23 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim.

Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. Claim 15 and 22 already have the limitations of the computing device being a portable computing device.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 21, 22, 23, 24 and 26, are rejected under 35

U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rennard et al., 6405123.

5. Rennard et al. disclose accessing a publicly available web site using a computing device that is remote from the vehicle on lines 35-37, on column 12; identifying within the web site at least one destination on lines 37-39, on column 12; automatically determining navigation information for said destination, wherein at least a portion of the navigation information includes geographic coordinates for the destination on lines 39-52, on column 2; storing the navigation information in a first memory(608) wherein the first memory is remote from the vehicle(608); transferring the navigation information from the first memory to a self-contained in vehicle navigation device on lines 52-54, on column 12; and permitting a user of the vehicle select the destination using the web site on lines 25-34, on column 11; the computing device is a portable computing device and a cellular device on lines 10-40, on column 22; providing a portable storage media, wherein the first memory is within the portable storage media on lines 40-50, on column 5; transferring the portable storage media to the vehicle navigation device in order to transfer the navigation information on lines 40-50, on column 5.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. Claims 18 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Rennard et al., 6405123, in view of King et al., 6721288.

7. Rennard et al. disclose the limitations as set forth above. Rennard et al. do not disclose establishing a queue for uploading the navigation information to the navigation device, communicatively linking the navigation device to a network containing the queue; automatically detecting the linking step, responsive to the detecting step, automatically placing the navigation information into the navigation device in a manner specified within the queue. King et al. teach establishing a queue for uploading the navigation information to the navigation device, communicatively linking the navigation device to a network containing the queue, automatically detecting the linking step; responsive to the detecting step, automatically placing the navigation information into the navigation device in a manner specified within the queue on lines 8-20, on column 7. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the queue of King et al. in the invention of Rennard et al. because such modification would compensate for the unavailability of wireless networks.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 14-27 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
